ASH REMOVALS TO BE MORE FREQUENT

Beginning Monday the winter ash collection schedule of two collections a week in the downtown section, and one collection a week in the suburbs will supersede the present weekly collections in the District. Attention is directed by the Street Cleaning Department to the regulation which provides that ash receptacles must be of metal and of not more than twenty-four gallons capacity.

ARREDONDO TO MEET MEXICAN CONFEREES

Report of Defections From Carranza Scouted.

Eliseo Arredondo, Mexican ambassador designate, who has returned to Washington after a conference with General Carranza at Mexico City, is expected to go to Atlantic City in a few days to confer with the Mexican members of the mediation commission. Mr. Arredondo has maintained silence since returning to Washington regarding his conference with Carranza. It is understood, however, he urged the first chief to withhold insistent demands for withdrawal of American troops for the present. State Department and Mexican embassy officials today ridiculed reports that Carranza is in flight, or that Carranza leaders had deserted their chief to join Villistas and Legallistas in a new revolt. There are no official reports, the State Department said, containing even a hint of such developments.

SEPARATE BATTALION HOME THIS EVENING

Roselyn, Va., again will be the scene of bustling soldiery when the First Separate Battalion of District troops arrives and detains at the small Virginia station at 6:30 o'clock this evening. The colored militiamen left Naco, Ariz., for their trip home last Sunday. The slowness with which a troop train is required to travel, together with the frequent stops for water and delays on sidings, is given at the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad office as the reason for the time consumed in the homeward trip.

As soon as the troop train bearing the first detachment of District militia home from the border pulls into the station at Roselyn this evening, the detachment will be ordered and the troops marched to their old camping site, the District mobilization grounds near Fort Myer.

To Pitch Camp Again. Arriving here, the soldiers will pitch their shelter tents and begin an indefinite encampment, waiting for orders from the War Department for their mustering out of the service.

Their large conical tents, stored on board the troop train, will be hauled to Fort Myer tomorrow instead of to the District armory, and the men will sleep in these until mustered out.

The recruits for the First Separate Battalion, who have been encamped near Fort Myer for over a month, will welcome their comrades from the border with open arms. Their stay in camp at Fort Myer has been overcast by the fact that they had no prospect of a trip to the border, the early return of the First Separate Battalion from Arizona, making their presence there unnecessary. These recruits will remain in camp with the First Separate Battalion until orders arrive for the mustering out of the whole organization.

Others Return Later. The next delegation of District troops to arrive from the border will be the Field Hospital unit, now at Douglas, Ariz., awaiting transportation facilities from the railroads. Scarcity of cars has delayed their entrapment for home.

Told in Their Own Words How Hughes and Roosevelt Would Have Acted With Germany, England, Mexico

Out of the din and confusion caused by the assertions, charges, and counter-charges which are being made by the Presidential candidates and their supporters, arises one question which many thousands of people are asking, and that is: "Just What Action Would Mr. Hughes or Mr. Roosevelt Have Taken in Dealing with Germany, England, and Mexico, Had They Been in Mr. Wilson's Place?"

With a view to throwing light on this subject, the editors of THE LITERARY DIGEST have carefully analyzed the speeches of Mr. Hughes, Mr. Roosevelt, and Mr. Wilson bearing upon our foreign relations.

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for October 14, the result is given in a very comprehensive article in which are arranged in careful juxtaposition the public utterances of each of the three men upon the subject of our foreign relations. By means of this orderly arrangement the American public can get a very definite answer to the question raised.

Among other important articles in this exceptionally interesting number are:

The Appeal of "The Digest" is as Universal as its Scope

There is an old saying that it is impossible to please everybody, which is measurably true. There are exceptions to this, however. One of these is THE LITERARY DIGEST. When you take it home every week you know you will please the whole family. Each issue contains matter for all tastes and for every taste. For father there is the political section, the foreign comment, the discussion of industrial and social issues of moment, and the advice on finance and investments; for mother, the articles on art, and literature, and religion and social service, and the book reviews; for the elder boy, science and invention, the war reports, and Personal Glimpses; for the elder girl, the art, music and current poetry; for the youngsters, the cartoons and the nuggets of humor in Spice of Life. And every page is clean, interesting, and packed with information. The news is real news, the comments are from all angles, the mirth without a sting. All this makes "The Digest" the ideal home news-magazine.
